FREW & CAMPBELL,

flice: Nos. 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 19.

as this coming fall, are hereby it gates to a Convention to be held in the City of Gra noth day of June next, at 10 A. M.

The Convention is called to select candidates for the following positions—viz: Governor, Auditor, Tressurer, Superintendent of Free Schools, Attorney-Treasurer, Superintendent of Free Schools, Attorney-General, and one member of the Supreme Court of

A. W. CAMPBELL,

THE census enumerators will begin their labors on Tuesday, June 1st, and they are to finish on or before the 1st of July.

THE renomination of Senator C. T. Butler, of Jefferson county, is strongly urged by a correspondent of the Shepherdstown Register on the ground that he is uncompromising in his opposition to the plans and purposes of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

BISHOP John J. Kain, of this Dioces who is now on a visit to Rome, notifies the Catholic Messenger, of Parkersburg, that on the 30th ultimo, His Holiness, the Pope, graciously bestowed his apostolic benediction on that paper and those who write for and support it.—Hunington Ad-

This being the case we shall hereafter expect to see a great improvement in the Messenger's controversies with the Journal.

THE Huntington Advertiser could be happy with either Jake Jackson or J. N. n as a candidate for Governor, but it wants one or the other of them to step down and out. It rather hints that Mr. Camden's friends are playing fast and loose with the Governorship. The trouble is that some people are trying to shelve Camden as a candidate for the United States Senate, by running him into the Governor's office. Our advice to Johnson is to stay out of the gubernatorial ring al-together, and take his chances for the ate. They are as good as anybody's at this writing.

Among the persons most frequently and favorably mentioned for Judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals to succeed Hon. Thomas C. Green, is Hon. Samuel B. Woods, of Barbour county. There seems to be an increasing desire to substitute some other for Judge Green in this all-important office; and from the commendations of him which are constantly appearing in the press of the State, Mr. Woods seems to be eminently qualified to fill the office. He was a distinguished member of the last Constitutional Convention in this State, and has also held other important.

portant oince; and from the commendations of him which are constantly appearing in the press of the State, Mr. Woods seems to be eminently qualified to fill the office. He was a distinguished member of the last Constitutional Convention in this State, and has also held other important offices and trusts.—Fayette Enterprise.

It is believed by a great many people that an infusion of latter day blood ought to be infiltrated, by some means or other, into the Supreme Court of this State.

Judge Green is unobjectionable as a man and as a very fair jurist, but his opinion in the Strauder case shows that he is an insorrigible Bourbon. Sam Woods is not the person to succeed him. Sam is also a in the strauder case shows that he be in which 305 votes out of 470 of the Distinct were represented.

When the farce was over the Sherman men met and concluded they would send a contesting delegation to the Chicago Convention. They will base their appeal (1) on the fact that the Congressional Districts were recognized as units of representation at Cincinnati in 1876; (2) that Chairman Cameron issued his invitation in the call for the Chicago Convention to the Republicans of the country to "choose inties, who are accustomed to look to who has done as much devilment in politics as Sam Woods has done in the last twenty years, ought to voluntarily reduce graph has informed you of the action of the Republican State Convention; how it instructed for Blaine, but it has not imparted a description of the gallant fight nade by the Sherman men, who gave the Blaine men enough trouble to remind them once in a while that there was not substantial unanimity for the Plumed

Knight.

The strength for the Secretary of the Treasury came from the Third Congressional District, and the Sherman men soon saw that the First and Second Congressional Districts were substantially solid for James G. They were then willing to concede at least eight delegates to Blaine, but relied on their right to select their district delegates to save two delegates to the prince of financiers, the choice of the overwhelming majority of their delegation.

The Blaine men had control of the formation and organization of the Convention, and the resolutions reported instructed the delegates at large to vote for James G. Blaine. But this was not strong enough. They could elect delegates of their own choosing in two districts and at large, but there was the Third district that would, if allowed its rights, send Sherman men to Chicago. The Convention was enjoying an ominous calm, when ex-Congressman Hagans arose an eulogized Blaine, whom he was pleased to call "the triumphant hero of a victorious peace;" and stalking down the middle aisle of the Convention hall, thrust into the hands of the Chairman, as if it were a shining lance of the "Plumed Knight," whose baldriche wore with conspicuous pride, a substitute for the first resolution, instructing the entire delegation for Blaine.

The venerable General Northcott, of Clarksburg, litted up his cry against the gaz.

Ex-Governor Stevenson, of Wood, added his voice to the protest, and begged the Convention not to throttle a respectable minority, and in support of his appeal cited the magnanimity of the Ohio Convention in allowing the districts to choose their own delegates. It was of no avail. The previous question was moved and carried with a whoop and a howl by the preponderating faction.

Captain Cracrat, editor of the Charleston Leader, offered a minority report which favored the adoption of the resolutions with the exception of the one instructing for Blaine.

An excitable Blaine delegate jumped up and moved to table the minority report. It was carried. Then a Sherman delegate raised the point that the motion carried with it the original report, which point was sustained by the-Chairman.

This threw the Blaine men into consternation, which would have led to inglorious defeat had they not had the working majority. Ex-Governor Stevenson, of Wood, ad

The Sherman men were cooler, and better parliamentarians, but they lacked the requisite strength to carry a point.

The report was finally taken from the table, and with a reverberating cheer the instructions were carried through.

The Blaine men not satisfied with this, sent a resolution galloping through, which provided that the District name the delevance has transmissionally the formation of the control of the control in the call for the Chicago Convention to the Republeans of the country to "choose two delegates form each Congressional District;" (3) on the fact that the West Virginia Convention separated isto Congressional Districts to make their selections of delegates to Chicago, and that the reports from the First and Second Districts were accepted as made and their nominations ratified, but that the Third District was distranchised.

After all, West Virginia may give three votes at least for Sherman.

SUMMARY OF CENSUS LAWS.

What is Expected of the Enumerators and Beads of Families, &c. The officers of the census who call at dwellings are styled "enumerators." Each States, was opened at Masonic Hall, in of them is authorized by law to make the this city, on Tuesday. The attendance inquiries, and get the answers required by was unexpectedly large. Most of the delegates, especially those from the Pacific coast and far-off Northern and Eastern States, were accompanied by their families, who were most agreeably entertained during their brief visit. Of the reports submitted to the meeting, that of the Supreme Treasurer showed that the total receipts during the past year amounted to $1,141.424 57; disbursements, $1,080,000; balance, $50,424 57. Thirty-two thousand dollar orders already drawn, when paid, will reduce the actual amount in the treasury to $1,424 57. Thirty-two thousand dollar orders already drawn, when paid, will reduce the actual amount in the treasury to $1,424 57. The widows' and orphans' benefit fund showed an expenditure of $1,101,000—paid in 555 benefits and derived from 17 assessments. A special call for the relief of Memphis, during the epidemic, produced $921.743 10. The death-rate in 1875 and was unexpectedly large. Most of the delthe law; each of them will have a duly

BUSINESS CONCERNS.

Some of these are close question cerning matters that most people do not care to talk about to strangers; but, when care to talk about to strangers; but, when it is considered the communications are needed by the government for its uses, and are made confidential by law, there should be no hesitancy in giving them freely to the enumerators. In matters of business, trade, agriculture, manufactures, commerce, mining, railroading, other transportation, insurance, expressing, telegraphing, and kindred subjects, the inquiries take a broad range, and in some respects the information to be thus collected will be an improvement our all former cansuses. This, it may be repeated, its guarded in the same way as to its privacy as family matters are. The enumerators are bound by oath, and under severe penalities of fine and imprisonment, to reveal it to no one, except in their official reports to official superiors, and they are bound in the same way.

There are provisions also for collecting the valuation of real and personal estate, by aggregates from towns, citice and counties; the aggregates of taxes assessed for all purposes; the number of colleges, academies, schools of all kinds and school funds; the number, character and condition of public libraries; statistics of newspapers and periodicais; the seasons and the crops; prices of labor; matters relating to religious worship; and of pauperism and crime. Some of this, as well as much that relates to mortality, railroad, telegraphs, insurance, &c., taxes, valuation and real estate, is to be got through corrected authorities or other agencies outside of the enumerators. All of it is important and the croper promptly and cheerfully it is considered the communications are portant for government purposes, and should be given promptly and cheerfull to those authorized by law to make the in quiries and collect the information.
